Short Term Austrian Marshall Plan Foundation Fellows in Central European Studies

Johns Hopkins University
Center for Transatlantic Relations
Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies, Washington, DC

The Austrian Marshall Plan Foundation Fellowships in Central European Studies enable outstanding scholars to conduct research on important issues related to Central Europe at the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) in Washington, D.C. Short term fellowships of up three (3) months are available anytime between September 2016 to June 2017.

Applications are welcome anytime; decisions are made on a rolling basis.

The Fellows are closely integrated into the research, training, and outreach activities of the Center for Transatlantic Relations (CTR) at SAIS, and will participate in CTR events and meetings. Each Fellow is expected to complete a research paper during the period of residence according to the terms of the assignment entered into with the Foundation.

Each year the Center and the Austrian Marshall Plan Foundation identify several themes of particular interest. For 2016-17, the Center is particularly interested in receiving applications that deal with any of the following:

- The future of Ukraine
- The future of the western Balkans
- Energy security issues
- 'Frozen' or 'festering' conflicts in central and eastern Europe
- Issues of human rights, democracy and rule of law in central and eastern Europe
- Central and eastern European approaches to migration and integration
- The role of central and eastern European countries in transatlantic approaches to common challenges.

Eligibility

Applicants for short Austrian Marshall Plan Foundation Fellowship must have a doctorate or be at the post-doctorate level, or have exhibited considerable professional experience in the field, have demonstrated research capacity, be fluent in English, and be eligible for a J-1 visa. Preference will be given to qualified and competitive candidates from Austria, but the Fellowship is open to candidates of other nationalities as well.

Stipend

The Fellow will enter into a research assignment with the Austrian Marshall Plan Foundation and will receive a monthly stipend of up to $5,000; an office with computer; Internet access and voicemail; access to Johns Hopkins University libraries and other facilities. The Fellow is expected to take care of his/her travel, accommodation, health care coverage and living expenses.

Application Procedure

Each applicant should submit the following (in English):

1. A letter supporting the application.
2. A 3 to 5 page double-spaced statement that proposes a research project, including its relevance to the research interests of the Center.
3. A curriculum vitae.
4. Two sealed letters of recommendation attesting to the applicant's professional competence.

The applicant is responsible for collecting all materials and submitting them as one packet to:
